Johnson Means It. To Attract Attention. No Stirpiculture. Gold the Standard.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1920.)

Hiram Johnson says:

"If I am elected to the presidential chair I will make the solution of the cost-of-living problem one of my first jobs. I will fight the profiteers to a finish and see that the big fellows are punished as well as the little ones."

If some of the other candidates, well-financed, said that, the public would laugh. When Johnson says it he means it. Everybody knows it. That is why profiteers, not interested in Johnson, are so energetic in financing other candidates.

The publicity committee of the Federation of Churches says the reporters of today would have opposed the crucifixion if they had been in Jerusalem at the time.

While praising newspapers the reverend gentlemen, as often happens, mourn for "quieter" newspapers. They say editors should co-operate intelligently with the churches, but "without glaring publicity."

Where do reverend gentlemen get the idea that "glaring publicity," which means compelling attention by vigorous action, is unwise?

The founder of Christianity believed in arousing interest energetically. Read St. Matthew, twenty-first chapter, nineteenth verse, telling how the fig tree was blasted because it bore no fruit. That was sensational.

Healing the leper by merely touching him and saying, "Be thou clean," was sensational. It was done to impress dull minds. It was not done to cure an individual case, when one "divine word could have abolished illness from the earth.

In the last scene of the greatest life the veil of the temple was rent in twain, and the earth did quake; the rocks were rent, the graves were opened and many bodies of saints which slept arose, and darkness spread over the earth for hours. All was not gentle publicity.

It was the most energetic kind of publicity, and its effect has lasted for two thousand years.

If you want people to notice you, compel attention. The world is too busy to notice gentle effort.

When you read that a learned young woman, dean of an important college for women, is about to marry a learned professor from another college, you say to yourself, perhaps: "My, what a learned family of children that will be."

But the thing does not follow in the least, and there in the wisdom of providence is seen

If Aristotle and Madame De Stael should come back to earth and marry you might see their daughter later dancing on her toes and revealing her bare knees in Mr. Ziegfeld's roof garden.

When a child is born, nature shuts her eyes, plunges her hand into a grab bag containing a million ancestors on both sides, and any one of the two million ancestors may be brought out, modified by the immediate parents.

This prevents what the stirpiculturists or "race improvers," desire—a special breeding of a special kind of human being.

You produce almost any result with dogs, elephants, vegetables, horses. You can do nothing with homo sapiens, which is the scientific name for yourself.

Jason Rogers, publisher, asks: "Is an international currency feasible?"

It is and it exists. Gold is the international currency. No international paper currency is feasible, for nations that are sane and behave themselves are not willing to underwrite those that prefer war and foolishness.

Some day, a long way off, the unit of value will be a day's labor, since the only real value is labor, muscular or mental.

But with coolies in China pushing freight with their muscles because men's bodies are cheaper than locomotives, black men in Africa working for a few cents a day, soldiers in Russia's industrial army working for nothing, you are a long way from a day's labor as the value unit.

For a long time to come gold of certain weight and fineness will continue to be the standard. Therefore put it in your purse or face trouble.

It is said that both of the big parties will agree to say nothing about prohibition. So far as booze, violently loved and violently hated, is concerned, the two platforms will see no evil, hear no evil and speak no evil. That is the plan. It would be interesting if political parties that control the nation should agree to dispose of an important question by refusing to see it. That would be a simple solution of many important questions.

LOUIS LIGGETT'S HOME ROBBED

IMPOSTOR SECURES JEWELRY

"Telephone Inspector" Also Robs John Moir's Home of $5,000 in Gems

Masquerading as a telephone inspector, a youthful thief entered the homes of Louis K. Liggett and John Moir, wealthy Boston merchants, on Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, and after ransacking several rooms, escaped with jewelry valued at approximately $15,000, it was learned today.

The first break was made at the Liggett home, No. 318 Hammond street, where $10,000 in gems were stolen, and the second at the Moir house, No. 324 Hammond street, where the thief got away with about $5,000 in jewelry. Both breaks occurred in the afternoon.

The robberies were two of the most daring ever perpetrated in that district, and indicate that the thief was familiar with both houses and picked a time for his "haul" when members of both families were away.

That he may have been a former telephone worker is supported by the fact that he was familiar with

Wilson Has No New Hat to Throw in Ring

Washington, June 3.—Woodrow Wilson, occupant of the White House, apparently fearful of a hard Winsor, has refused to buy a new straw hat, appearing on an auto ride through Rock Creek Park in his last year's summer hard covering.

He seemed to be in an especially pleasant mood, doffing his aged headgear graciously to all who saluted him.

SENATE ACTS ON P. O. WAGE

Walsh Sees Little Hope of Securing Advance Over Increases Set by Commission

The Postal Wage Investigating Committee report went before the United States Senate today for action, according to a telegram to the Boston American from Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts.

"The report was presented so late," says Senator Walsh, "that in all probability few if any changes will be made in the salary increases recommended.

"In the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads I made a motion to increase the salary of carriers and clerks, but without success, though most of the committee feels that the wages are inadequate. They fear that any attempt to tamper with the commission's report will block action and prevent the passage of the bill before the adjournment of Congress, which the majority has scheduled for Saturday next.

JOHNSON STOCK RISES

King Swings to California Candidate and May Win Him Pennsylvania

Chicago, June 3.—A startling shrinkage in Governor Lowden's boom and a marked increase of sentiment in favor of Senator Johnson were the outstanding developments today in pre-convention gossip among the Republican leaders.

There is no question that Johnson occupies the most important and conspicuous position of all the candidates seeking the Republican nomination.

Lowden's stock had fallen off as a result of the disclosures in Washington and because of the growing conviction among the National Committeemen, especially among those from the West, that Lowden, if nominated, could not be elected.

KING OUT FOR JOHNSON.

One of the most decided of the day's developments helpful to Johnson was the open activity of John T. King of Connecticut in support of Johnson's candidacy.

King was a visitor at Johnson headquarters and throughout the day passed the word around among all the committeemen and delegates he could meet that Johnson was the only one of all the candidates now in the race who could be elected if given the nomination.

MAY SWING PENNSYLVANIA.

This activity on King's part created considerable consternation among some of the old-time leaders, who had not believed that King's falling out with the Wood managers would make him an aggressive workers in the Johnson ranks.

The active support given by King to Johnson means infinitely more than would appear on the surface. It may mean that Penrose will at the proper time swing over to Johnson and give

I. THE GENERALS.

(Copyrighted by The Foreign Press Service.)

I must begin this article with a story.

In the second decade of the nineteenth century, when Ferdinand VII. of Spain destroyed the Constitutional regime and restored the absolute monarchy, there was, so people say, a very wretched actor playing in a comedy theatre in Madrid. He was not merely a bad actor. His ineptitude surpassed anything that the public of the Spanish capital had ever seen.

When things were getting past the limit of endurance, a plot was hatched to drive him off the stage one evening with a fusillade of potatoes. But the actor, who in his way was no fool, managed to get wind of what was in store for him, and made arrangements to avoid it.

"Long live the absolute monarchy!" he shouted, stepping forward on the stage. "Down with the Liberals!" And the audience in the theatre fell into abashed silence. Who dared attack a man with such words on his lips? Any hostile demonstration would have been interpreted as an act of treason to the King.

A device somewhat similar has been tried with me by a number of people who find it to their personal interest to support the present government in Mexico. And it will, in the future, be tried by many, very many others, by everybody in fact who thinks it will help him along in his business to win the gratitude of the ruling clique in that country by rushing to its defence here.

"He is attacking Latin America," they shout, like the comedian of Madrid. "He is throwing mud at people who speak his own language and are of his own flesh and blood!"

Now, in my long career as a writer, I have done plenty of things that will protect me, with some to spare, from any such childish insults. In

The Purchase street four-alarm fire at its height

20 OVERCOME IN 4-ALARM FIRE

Twenty firemen were overcome, a number of others were injured, two buildings were destroyed and several damaged by a four-alarm fire which caused losses estimated at $300 000 on Purchase street today.

The fire started on the second floor of the four-story brick structure, Nos. 238-240 Purchase street, extending through to Nos. 595-597 Atlantic avenue, demolishing both buildings, occupied by Foss & Co., Inc., wool merchants.

It spread to the building at No. 242-244 Purchase street and No. 299 Atlantic avenue, occupied by the Armour Leather Company, sole cutters, to No. 236 Purchase street, occupied by Hiram H. Kelley Companay, and to No. 372 Atlantic avenue, occupied by Youlden, Smith & Hopkins.

The fire, the cause of which was undetermined, resulted in a number of hot air explosions, which injured several firemen and prevented them from entering the buildings on the Purchase street side

Among those seriously overcome by smoke were William Fallon of Engine 39, who was dragged from the Atlantic avenue side of the burning buildings by his comrades, John Ken-

THREE MEN INJURED IN STAGING COLLAPSE

Three men were injured, one of them possibly fatally when a staging collapsed at the plant of the Massachusetts Oil Refineries Company, East Braintree, precipitating them 25 feet to the ground today. The men, who were rushed to the Quincy City Hospital, were Patrick J. Mitchell, No. 75 Trafford street, Quincy; Andrew McKenzie, Weymouth, and Harry Songe of Beaumont, Tex.

GIRL VICTIM OF ACID NEAR DEATH

Miss Annie McKenzie, twenty-one years old, of No. 109 Goddard avenue, Brookline, was found early in an unconscious condition on Francis Parkman road, near Jamaica Pond, suffering from self-administered carbolic acid.

The young woman was rushed to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital where her condition is reported as grave.

The girl was found, it says, by Joseph Collins and John Kane, orderlies at the Parker Hill Hospital. She told them she had taken poison and asked to be sent to her home.

The police were notified and ordered the girl sent to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

TINKHAM CALLS ON PALMER TO RESIGN

Washington, June 3.—Attorney General Palmer was called upon to resign by Representative George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts in the House, as a result of the report of the Congressional committee which investigated the Attorney General's handling of the sugar situation.

Tinkham declared that since the report declared that Palmer had violated the Lever act in fixing the price of Louisiana sugar and had made profiteering possible, "his continuance in office is no longer possible."

Palmer is accused in the report submitted by a special House Committee of acting "wholly without authority of law" and "prostituting his office to aid sugar profiteers" when he fixed the maximum selling prices of the Louisiana crop.

Following presentation of the report Tinkham declared that Palmer stood convicted of being the friend of profiteers and violating his own oath of office," he added:

FIXING OF SUGAR PRICES.

"He has been found guilty of giving official immunity from prosecution for profiteering to all persons who might make excessive profits on prices set by him. He violated the law and his further tenure of office is impossible."

The findings show that on November 8, 1918, Palmer gave his official approval to a maximum price of 17 cents a pound for prime yellow clarified sugar and 18 cents a pound for granulated sugar to representatives of Louisiana sugar planters. These prices, according to the committee, were fixed for the entire Louisiana sugar crop of 1919-1920.

The committee expressed the belief that the entire crop could have been purchased at 14 or 15 cents a pound. It further charged that under the arrangement with the committee representing sugar planters, Mr. Palmer guaranteed them immunity from prosecution for profiteering, although the prices fixed by him in many cases actually caused a violation of the Lever act.

"Lies," Palmer Calls Charges of Lawyers

Washington, June 3.—Attorney-General Palmer characterized as "lies" the charges in a recent report made by a group of lawyers that he and his agents had committed unconstitutional acts. Mr. Palmer appeared before the House Rules Committee to answer charges made by Assistant Secretary of Labor Louis F. Post, and after refuting these allegations he went into the other attacks against him.

"It is all a part of the same kind of attack against the government and against its officers in carrying out the laws, and that has been going on for months," Palmer declared.

Taking up the report of the group of lawyers, which has received wide attention, Palmer first declared that he "didn't think much of the men named," and then said the report was based only on affidavits of the aliens under arrest. He devoted much time to defending the character of the department's agents and their methods.

PALMER SPENT LESS THAN $50 IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., June 3.—It cost Attorney-General Palmer less than $50 to obtain the Pennsylvania presidential vote for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States, according to his expense account, filed with the State department here. Senator Boies Penrose certified to $4,131.64 in his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

BOY ENJOYS 3-DAY ADVENTURE ON $9

Fitchburg, June 3.—Three days of adventure for $9 was the experience of eleven-year-old Carl William Warrington of No. 42 Orange street, this city. Carl hired a livery team for $5 and went on a prolonged drive, stopping two nights in Pepperell and paying $4 for his own and the horse's keep. Police Chief Baxter of Pepperell held the youngster until his father telephoned.

Thousands of persons on their way to work witnessed the efforts of the firemen to obtain control of the blaze, but were kept back by a police detail in charge of Sergeant Thomas McPiernan of Station 2.

Blazing up through the wool-filled warehouse, the flames shot through the roof, necessitating the sounding of four alarms and causing a shutdown on the Atlantic avenue circuit of the Elevated.

Heavy, acrid smoke which pervaded the district hampered the firemen in their efforts and temporarily blinded several men of Engine 29 and Ladder 8.

The blaze was fought from every vantage point, including roof tops and the Elevated structure, and the water damage was especially heavy in the building at No. 242-244 Purchase street and No. 299 Atlantic avenue.

The twenty firemen overcome by smoke were connected with Engines 25, 28, 23 and 39, while one man from Ladder 8 and one protective man were slightly burned by hot-air explosions.

Captain Ryan of Engine 25 and one of his men, working on the Purchase street side, were thrown from their feet by the explosions, as were two men from Engine 10 on the Atlantic avenue side.

The building at No. 246 Purchase street, occupied by H. H. Kelly & Co., leather findings, and adjoining the Foss building, was damaged by water.

Slight loss was also sustained by James E. Greene & Co., electrical supplies, who had office room in the building at No. 246 Purchase street. The firm is moving, however, and all of their stock had been removed from the building before the fire.

Sparks from engines caused two awning fires at J. E. Doherty & Co., No. 615 Atlantic avenue, and the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., No. 180 Summer street.

"Telephone Inspector" Impostor Gets $10,000 in Jewelry; Moir Loses $5,000 the mechanism of telephones, which disarmed any suspicion the servants might have had.

MADE EXCUSE TO LEAVE.

It is known that the Liggett home received a telephone message about ten days ago from a person who said he was a telephone inspector and would call shortly to look over the wires.

Carrying a leather bag similar to those used by telephone men, the "inspector" was admitted to the house by a servant and immediately busied himself with one of the connection boxes leading from several of the phones in the house. He seemed to know his business and the servant left him alone.

Later the servant returned and was told by the "inspector" that certain phone parts were needed and that he would have to get them at his office. Leaving the connection box strewn over the floor of one of the rooms, he departed.

MANY ROOMS ENTERED.

About an hour later, when members of the family returned, the loss was discovered. The bogus telephone man had entered nearly every room where he thought jewelry might be hidden and had been careful to conduct his tour while the servants were in other parts of the house.

Within two hours after the break police inspectors and officials from the phone company were at the Liggett home. The next day at least a dozen telephone inspectors were called to the house, but none of the servants identified any of them as the man who had left to get "a telephone part."

SWORN TO SECRECY.

In the meantime everybody in connection with the case had been sworn to keep silent. This secrecy, however, acted as a boomerang to Newton Centre three days later, when the same suave young "inspector" appeared at the home of John Moir, No. 334 Hammond street, and told virtually the same story to the servants there that he had at the Liggett home.

He was admitted and after making the same excuse concerning a telephone part left the house with about $6,000 worth of jewelry.

His Royal Highness Crowned This Customer

LAST Saturday an old customer came into my store, picked out a 7¼ straight-brim straw, tried it on, took a peek in the mirror, thought it looked good, decided to keep it, and gaves the salesman $3.45.

A Silent Salesman

This man knew his size, and he knew where to find it. He knew what he wanted, and he got it. He knew there was only one price, and he paid it. There were no questions asked, no comments made. It was Self-Service with a Silent Salesman — and the customer was the salesman.

But when the sale was completed, the silence was broken. In making a final inspection of this straw hat, he noticed on the lining the words:

"Made in England"

He asked the salesman in a joking sort of way whether it was a Sample or a Mistake — whether it was born in Old England or New England—and said he thought only the high-priced fellows sold genuine English hats.

Now, the fact is, I've been buying some English hats for the last fifteen years, but I have never said anything about it. I didn't think it was important enough to write home about. I didn't buy English hats to get an imported flavor. I like baseball better than cricket. I think good American hats are just as good as English hats. The only reason this hat was marked "Made in England" was because the Government required it.

Ireland to Iceland

I went to England to get good merchandise at a fair price. I would have gone from Ireland to Iceland, if I had to, to get what I wanted. I went to Old England rather than let a New England Manufacturing Profiteer freeze me out, or freeze me up.

Baltimore is the center of the straw hat industry in this country, and after I had given the factories in Baltimore all they wanted to take at the price I was willing to pay, I still had an order of about 20,000 dozen that I wanted to place. I thought I knew where to place it, and I went there.

This particular factory had made thousands of dozens for me in the past fifteen years. But this year they wanted the same rate for 10,000 dozen as they would for one dozen. Every other year they were mighty glad to get my order to keep their organization together and the wheels turning during their dull period.

Profiteering in Straws

As the demand for straw hats was greater than the production, they thought they'd take advantage of a shortage in straws this season and would make more money by selling to a lot of little fellows at a long profit, rather than take a large order at a small margin.

Of course, I couldn't do business on that basis, and I guess they couldn't. That factory is out of business today. That's why I bought more than 200,000 English hats last year for this summer.

When the cables announced my buyer was filling up the English factories, the next boat that left New York looked like a Hat Buyers' Convention. I guess every big buyer that could pack his grip in time sailed for England.

But it was too late. They couldn't beat the boat. I kept the cables warm while they were on the water. My buyer was placing orders while they were playing pinochle. When they arrived, prices went up, sterling went down, raw materials were scarce, and money was tight.

100,000 "English Sailors" Arrive

Well, the answer is, I've got more than 100,000 "English Sailors" in my stores now and the "reserves" are coming in on every boat.

These English straw bonnets are styled to the Queen's taste and are just the same "English Boaters", "English Sailors" and "English Sennets" that the Piccadilly shops show in the window with the Royal Coat of Arms, and a statement explaining they are doing business "By Special Warrant of His Majesty the King".

Now, if you want a little Royal Luxury, you can enjoy it with the compliments of his Royal Majesty without a Luxury tax, because they're all one price—$3.45.

They're all one Price $3.45

UTICA CLOTHING FIRM IS FINED $55,000 FOR PROFITEERING

LESSON IS TAUGHT GOUGERS

Judge Imposes Heaviest Penalty Law Allows—Company Appeals Sentence

Syracuse, N. Y., June 3.—John A. Roberts Company, of Utica, was fined $55,000 by Federal Judge Howe in Federal Court here. The Roberts firm had been convicted of profiteering in the sale of wearing apparel.

The fine is the heaviest the law would permit. There were eleven counts against the firm, the law providing for a fine of $5,000 on each count.

Judge Howe, in imposing the fine stated that it would stand as a moral lesson to every retail merchant throughout the country.

A motion for a writ of error on which to appeal the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals was granted, and ten days were allowed the fisherts firm to post bonds to secure the fine.

New Jersey Concern Fined $1,000 for Profiteering

New York, June 3.—In the Federal District Court here Judge A. H. Hand fined the New York & New Jersey Produce Company $1000 after a plea of guilty had been entered to a charge under the Lever law that it had made an unlawful profit in potatoes during the "outlaw" railroad strike. The profit was alleged to have been $1,200 on one carload of potatoes.

RING SUIT TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Wait, in the equity session of the Superior Court, took under advisement the suit of Lester F. O'Connor to recover a $400 diamond ring from Laura E. Donahue. The principals are employed in the bank, one as clerk, the other as cashier.

O'Connor claims the gem was an engagement gift, while the defendant maintains it was a Christmas present. O'Connor, before sailing for France to serve overseas a year ago, went to city Hall with Miss Donahue and applied for a marriage license, according to testimony, she was to call for the license in five days, but failed to do so.

She informed O'Connor, when he returned from service, that the engagement was broken. She claims she learned of O'Connor's alleged relations with another girl and hence changed her mind.

TO RECEIVE BRIEFS ON W. M. WOOD INDICTMENT

New York, June 3.—Judge Mack in United States Court here will receive briefs Tuesday on the motion of Charles Evans Hughes to quash indictments against William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen companies. The question involved is whether woolen goods come under the classification "wearing apparel" in the Lever bill against profiteering under which the indictments were found.

While Boston was today the hottest place in New England, relief was promised during the afternoon or evening by showers and a decided drop in the temperature.

Weatherman Smith stated that before tomorrow noon the temperature would be down to 60, and he expects that it will remain around that figure until the end of the week.

At 11 o'clock the mercury stood at 83, one degree below the thermometer mark of the same time yesterday.

It was, however, far below the mark of a year ago today, when the mercury touched 98.

Doubtfulness prevails in almost every section of the country, while heavy rains are falling in several Southern States. Eastport, Me., New England's coolest, reports a temperature of only 46.

Thousands flocked to the beaches today, when it was seen that the weather was endeavoring to duplicate yesterday's high mark. The State bathhouses at Revere was thrown open at noon for the first time this season and a large crowd was on hand.

COMMUNITY PAGEANT WILL BE REPEATED

J. Helms' ministry as superintendent of the institution.

TROOPS LEAVE BRISTOL, R. I.

Rubber Mills Where Strikers Caused Disorder Reopen Under Guard

Bristol, R. I., June 3.—One-half the State troops on strike duty here were withdrawn today. Withdrawal was decided on when the National India Rubber Company mills were reopened this morning without disorder. The remaining troops will be sent home tomorrow.

About 3,500 mill hands and all the office help returned to work under escort of State militia. Strikers were on the streets in force, but were kept moving, and made no demonstration.

Town officials today declared the criels which followed the wounding of several men in strike riots as over. Agitation was immediately begun for withdrawal of the State troops.

Considerable bitterness has arisen among Bristol residents at the action of the rubber company officials. Natives were pointing out today that the foreigners who made all the trouble and caused Bristol to be pressed against as in a state of civil war were brought to this country by the company on the strength of glittering promises that have not been fulfilled.

Considerable resentment was also shown at the summary manner in which the town was declared in insurrection and placed under martial law.

Cosimo Forti, one of the men wounded in the last week's rioting, was unconscious today at the Rhode Island State Hospital and was not expected to live.

DEPLORES IRISH WOMEN'S ACTS

Daniel T. O'Connell Says Washington "Pickets" Should Be Repudiated

By DANIEL T. O'CONNELL

Editor Boston American:

I can but repeat which I have previously said, that the acts of the so-called women pickets who protest to speak for Ireland and Americans of Irish blood are wholly unauthorized.

It is a source of keen regret to those vested with authority to direct the activities of Americans of Irish blood that this small group of women should take upon themselves such grave responsibility as performing acts which achieves no other result except notoriety for the participants.

Ireland's cause has progressed with extraordinary strides in America, simply because the responsible leaders have insisted upon the utmost respect being paid to American traditions and the American manner of seeking assistance from America for the cause of the oppressed people of a small nation.

There is no occasion for such acts as the so-called pickets engaged in.

No political party can control all its members. Neither can any other large body. Therefore it is not surprising that less than a score of women from the millions of American women of Irish blood take it upon themselves to act without authority and refuse to be guided by the judgment of those who have won victory after victory in forcing Britain to realize that the American people, irrespective of race or creed, are demanding justice for Ireland.

2 MARINES HURT IN RACE RIOT

Service Men Attack Negro Hotel at Waukegan, Ill., and Battle Police

By International News Service.

Waukegan, Ill., June 3.—Two U. S. marines lie wounded in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station hospital today and naval authorities are planning drastic disciplinary measures for the station as the result of the second race riot in three days in which a mob of sailors and marines late last night attacked the Waukegan police and attempted to burn down a hotel frequented by negroes.

Early last night the police received information that an organized band of sailors and marines intended to raid the Sherman House, a negro hotel which was the centre of Monday's rioting, with the intention of setting fire to the structure. Armed with riot guns and reinforced by a number of overseas veterans, the police went to the hotel and awaited the attack.

The mob of service men, numbering 150, poured out of a ravine back of the hotel and charged the structure. They were led by a sailor carrying the American flag.

The police commanded the attackers to halt, but the latter paid no attention. The hotel defenders then fired a volley into the air. The sailors and marines merely laughed—and came on. Then, while the terror-stricken negroes fled from the hotel, a number of them, women with babies in their arms, attackers and defenders closed in hand-to-hand fighting.

Over fifteen minutes the fight raged. Several shots were fired and two marines dropped. The police took several prisoners and lodged them in jail. The mob followed them there.

Lieutenant M. M. Frucht arrived with a strong provost guard, and the sailors and marines were taken back to the station.

Trouble between the Great Lakes men and negro residents of Waukegan originally started when negro boys stoned an automobile driven by a naval lieutenant.

$200,000,000 THEFT CHARGED TO BARUCH

Washington, June 3.—Charging that Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, and his associates had "stolen two hundred million dollars in copper alone," Representative Frederick A. Britten, of Illinois, in a letter to Mr. Baruch, stated that he would proceed with a civil or criminal suit against the latter "after March 4, 1921."

Representative Britten's letter to Mr. Baruch was in reply to one from the financier demanding a retraction of Britten's charges. The letter, written on May 27, to the effect that "Bernard Baruch, closest man to the President of the United States, stole fifty million dollars in copper alone."

Unknown Poet Adores Princess Mary

London, June 3.—A gifted poet has fallen in love with Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary.

He is deluging her with unsigned love letters which are said to be written in beautiful language, expressing the loftiest sentiments.

The letters, which are typewritten, began to arrive a month ago and continue to arrive three times a week. The writer is intimately familiar with the character, disposition and habits of the Princess.

However, the most careful inquiry by Queen Mary, who reads all the letters together with her daughter, has failed to reveal the identity of the romantic wooer.

Mediums Fool Selves, Says Dr. Prince

Dr. Morton Prince of Boston, speaking before the convention of the American Neurological Association in New York yesterday, told how he has tracked the ouija board and powers of mediums to their lairs and has learned their secrets.

He told of a psychological study he made of a medium and his discovery it is sub-conscious memory of past events that is responsible for apparently marvelous manifestations. In describing one case he said the medium was fooling herself as well as her friends.

"This woman," he said, "had been brought up in wealth. Her father had failed, been in poverty, and it was up to her to earn her own living. It had been a family tradition that an old negro's death was the work of a great master and would bring a large sum of money.

"One day this woman, who lived in Minneapolis, was playing with a ouija board, and was told to make herself passive. While in a trance she met Marie Antoinette, who told her that the picture in a gilt frame, which she awoke from the trance she asked ouija to remember, was a picture of a portrait. The answer was: 'Phil-Carney will restore them. Go to the Washington Hotel.'

OUIJA HELPS HER.

"She telephoned the hotel and was told that Phil Carney had died eight months previously. Ouija then informed her that Carney had had a friend, a photographer, who would help her. Inquiries proved this true.

"She asked ouija to allow her to see Phil Carney. Then she grasped his hand, she said, feeling it as certainly as she could feel my hand. She right off and asked to be shown another bottle, containing as clearly."

lighter oil. This she took. Phil told her through the ouija board it was right. It was labelled 'Salamander Oil.'

"How did she know Carney was an artist, and the other facts about him?

GUESSED PART OF IT.

"I had obtained her sub-conscious co-operation, and one day she visualised a newspaper story telling of Carney's death and giving details of his life. A friend sent me the newspaper clipping, and they told the very things that had been brought back to her.

"I resurrected the vision of Phil Carney, and then she remembered another vision of him eleven years before in the door of the Washington Hotel. She saw a man dressed just as her later vision seemed to be. A porter said to him, 'Good evening, Mr. Carney.'

"She guessed that Phil Carney had bought his art materials in the largest art shop in town. Why I took her back to her days of study in a convent studio, and she visioned a nun, Mary Armstrong, her teacher in art. She remembered two bottles of oil—one dark, for china, and another light, labelled 'Salamander,' for freshening up old pictures. I verified this at the convent.

"Part of her mind knew all the time that there was no Phil Carney talking to her. But why did she want to deceive herself and friends?

"She was poor and had been rich. She rebelled against conditions; was unhappy in the last degree and had contemplated suicide. The other side of herself saw a solution. She wanted to become a great prophetess and the prospect of becoming one made her supremely happy.

"I think all cases could be analysed in a similar manner."

Public Urged to Seize Rights in Rent Laws

Victory for the rent payers of Massachusetts.

The battle waged for the past three months by the Boston American for remedial rent legislation ended when Governor Calvin Coolidge affixed his signature to the last two of the five rent bills, which resulted from the original comprehensive bills of Representative Martin Hays of Brighton.

The good work done by the Boston American Tenants' League is now ended. The legislation protecting the rights of tenants and fair landlords is now law.

THANK TENANTS' LEAGUE.

The Boston American wishes to extend thanks to every member of the Boston American Tenants' League, who worked hard and faithfully for the passage of these bills, now part of the statute law of the Commonwealth. To the chairman of the various branches much credit is due them for obtaining interviews with their Representatives in the General Court and getting these gentlemen to support the measures.

To Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, father of the original bill and an ardent worker for its passage, who gave up personal engagements and made numerous personal sacrifices on behalf of remedial legislation, the Boston American also publically extends its thanks.

Nor is it unmindful of the fine and able service rendered by other members of the General Court; the members of the Joint Committee on Judiciary, headed by Senator Augustus Peabody Loring, who devoted much time and thought to the new legislation; to the several Representatives and Senators who aided in perfecting the measures.

READ NEW LAWS CAREFULLY.

The American wishes to correct the false impression that Representative Silbert, whose amendment to one of the bills led many to believe that he was fighting for the landlords, had any such a motive. As a matter of fact his amendment was an excellent one. He was one of those who fought for protection for the tenants from the first.

Even toward those who opposed the bills at any stage of their passage the Boston American feels that their opposition was based upon what they considered right, and that the future working of the laws will convince them of their pardonable mistake.

Rent payers throughout the Commonwealth should endeavor to make themselves familiar with their new rights under the laws, and should they desire to proceed under any of these new acts, take the matter up with their local rent committees.

The last two bills signed by the Governor make any increase of more than 2½ per cent. oppressive, and provide that any increase in rent may be taken to court, and provide that the courts may grant a six months' stay of proceedings in cases of summary eviction.

Beauty Secrets Revealed.
Anna Q. Nilsson the Popular Actress Tells How
To Instantly Have a Beautiful Rosy-White Skin and Complexion

MISS ANNA Q. NILSSON

New York—"The secret of beauty is the proper care of the skin," says Miss Nilsson, the popular Metro star. "It only requires a few moments time and science is more than paid for the little effort it takes. In the first place the skin should be kept scrupulously clean. Use a good cleansing cream (Lieka cold cream I have found to be the best), follow this by bathing the face with warm water then rinse with cold water and dry thoroughly with a coarse towel. After this process select a beautifier which in addition to being a beautifier has a healing effect on the skin. The very best I have found for this purpose is ourwillo, as it instantly beautifies the complexion and its continued use makes the results permanent. Derwillo takes the place of face powder, as it stays on better and is wonderful for a shiny nose, oily, dark, sallow skin, freckles, tan, wrinkles and other facial blemishes. Just make this test: Put derwillo on one side of your face, then look in your mirror and compare it with the other side—you will need no further argument to convince you that nothing beautifies like derwillo. It imparts a youthful appearance and if you would keep your complexion at its best all the time make derwillo a part of your toilet as you now do face powder and note the favorable comments of your friends. Short sleeves are now in vogue, use derwillo to beautify your hands and arms and protect them from roughness and ruddiness, which always follows exposure to sun, dust and wind. It is guaranteed absolutely harmless on the most delicate skin and will positively not stimulate or produce a growth of hair. Give it a thorough trial and you will never be without it. Accept no substitutes as there is nothing "better," "just as good" or "just like it." Derwillo is now dropped about derwillo and he will tell you that he has never sold any other article which has become so popular in so short a time. This is due to the satisfaction it gives. It is guaranteed in every druggist or department store to give complete satisfaction or they will refund your money. If you don't like it take it back. Could anything be fairer? It is sold at all first-class druggists in this city.

FOOD THAT GIVES REAL STRENGTH

Elements of Nourishment Are Contained in Father John's Medicine

The reason that you get real strength and actual, increased weight from Father John's Medicine is because the elements of nourishment contained in this old-fashioned food tonic are so prepared that the weakened system easily takes them up and turns them into new tissue and flesh. In this way alone can real strength be built up. Many persons become thin and rundown because they do not get these food elements from their diet and in such cases a tonic food such as Father John's Medicine is a vital necessity at this season of the year. Guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

POSTAL WORKERS WARN CONGRESSMEN

Watch Action of Bay State Representatives on Salary Increase Bill

the figures named in the bill increased in the Senate, but frankly do not believe there is much possibility of favorable action.

"The plan seems to be to push the bill through in the closing hours without change and to fight every change proposed on the ground that it will prevent final action in this session."

Congressmen Warned by Postal Workers

Each of the Massachusetts Congressmen received today a telegram from Local 100 of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks notifying them that more than 30,000 postal clerks in Massachusetts, every one of whom is a voter, are closely watching their individual action on the salary increase bill which will be acted upon by Congress today.

The postoffice men are gratified at the stand taken by Congressman Tague of Boston, who promises to make a last ditch fight in the House to have the maximum salary set at $2,000 instead of at $1,800, as provided in the bill prepared by the House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads.

Congressman Tague's efforts may be in vain for it is reported from Washington that at this late season of Congress the bill can only be put through under a suspension of rules. This eliminates the probabilities of amendments and in order to get any raise for the employes this year the bill must be acted upon as it now stands.

While Boston post office men are exceedingly disappointed at the meagreness of the raise recommended they nevertheless feel that a half loaf is better than none. They intend to keep up their fight and hope during the next session of Congress to put through a salary bill which will allow for a living wage.

Edward Fitzpatrick, vice-president of Local 100 of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, says that any Massachusetts Congressman that refuses to see the justice of the mail men's demands is politically dead.

WANT LIVING WAGE.

"We are not asking for anything unreasonable," he says. "All we want is a living wage. We are disappointed at the smallness of the increase recommended by the House committee and yet we are thankful for anything we can get.

"As conditions are today we are among the worst paid workers. Even foreigners, knowing but little English, are able to earn more in unskilled occupations than we are. Our Congressman, we hope, realize this.

"If they do not they will see every post office man in the State lined up against them when they come up for re-election."

OPPOSE PENSION SYSTEM.

Among the younger men employed in the postal service there is considerable opposition to the compulsory pension system that is recommended by the House committee along with the salary bill. Under this system 2½ per cent. of an employe's salary is deducted each month to be applied to a pension fund.

As a man must work for thirty years before he becomes eligible for pension the employes feel that the young men in the department are being unfairly taxed.

The pension clause, according to William A. Colling of the Coolidge Corner station, is meeting with opposition among more than 75 per cent. of the postal clerks.

"The young men can't feel," he declares, "that the pension deduction is unnecessary at this time in view of the smallness of proposed raise. The clerks would not mind the deduction if the increase was a substantial one. Under the new salary scale it means a deduction of almost $50 a year from the pay of each man who has been in the service five years or more. The laborer but a trifle over $100 a year or less than two dollars a week.

"With the present high prices to combat, an increase in wages of two dollars a week is but a drop in a bucket."

APPROVE TIME OFF.

The recommendation by the committee that in future time off must be given for Sunday and holiday service is meeting with the approval of the Boston postal men. If this feature of the bill is accepted it will mean that in future an employe can not be forced into the acceptance of money payments instead of taking time off due him.

In many offices regular employes have been virtually forced to work every Sunday and holiday. It is said because of a shortage of help or the unwillingness of the superintendents to hire extras. Some of the employes willingly accepted the extra service because of the additional compensation, but for the most part it was looked upon as an injustice because it meant the loss of needed rest and recreation.

PETITION TO CONGRESS

To the Congress of the United States:

I appeal to the members of Congress to use their influence in securing the passage of legislation which will provide a suitable, living wage for the employes of the postal service.

I ask that some action be taken to prevent the continued and increasing number of resignations of highly-trained, capable and efficient employes, who are forced to seek other lines of business, with a consequent impairment of the postal service.

I appeal to Congress for immediate action, on the part of two hundred and fifty thousand postal employes, in order to save the postal service from complete collapse.

TELLS MAYOR TO WORK, NOT TALK

Roslindale Streets in Terrible Shape, Says Representative Penshorn

"If Andrew J. Peters, Mayor of Boston, would cease to offer excuses for the terrible condition of the streets of the city and begin to do something constructive he would be infinitely more popular with the taxpayers of Roslindale," declared George Penshorn, Representative from the Twenty-second Suffolk District, today, in discussing the conditions of Boston's streets.

"It is a well known fact," he said, "that Boston has the worst streets of any city of its size in the United States. Mayor Peters says it is the war. However, it seems that the war was fought by the United States. Then he lays the blame on the former holders of the office of Mayor and then on the Legislature. But Mayor Peters should learn an old saying that 'where there is a will there is a way.'

"Washington street, Roslindale, is an absolute disgrace. There is no sidewalk and no road. The paving brick beside the tracks which choke up all the road there is, are in such a state of unevenness that it is dangerous to drive over this road. These stones knock the steering wheel out of a driver's hand. This is not a supposition, it is an absolute fact. Three cars have had this very thing happen to them. They have been thrown down a twelve-foot embankment and in two cases women were placed on the danger lists at hospitals as the result.

"City Hall is the cemetery for petitions asking for better conditions. My constituents have almost reached the limit of endurance.

CHUCK HOLES A FOOT DEEP.

"It is not as though Washington street were some back road seldom traveled. It is the main line to Providence and New York. Thousands of cars go over it each day. Last week a large truck broke a spring. For these damages the city of Boston is liable.

"Washington street, for a distance of several miles, has no sidewalks. There are chuck holes more than a foot deep.

"Belgrade avenue is full of holes. This has been brought to the attention of the proper authorities, but as usual nothing has come of it.

"Lyle South street, also in Roslindale, is in deplorable condition. It is so bad that the people living there are willing to put in sidewalks at their own expense if the city would only furnish a little gravel. Will they? They will not.

"South street was on Sunday traveled by 1,192 automobiles—by count. The dust was so bad that people were forced to wet the roads at their own expense."

"It has been brought to my attention that you are interested in a drive, having for its object the securing of a small fund to aid the stricken families in Portugal who were affected by the war. Mourns Loss of Pet Angora Cat

JUNE MARIE ROGERS.

Twelve-year-old June Marie Rogers, a pupil in the Northern Junior High School, Somerville, is mourning the loss of a pet angora cat, which disappeared last Monday.

Jerry was a great favorite with the little girl and was her constant companion on her way to to school and about the streets in the vicinity of Winter Hill.

June, with her parents, made a trip to Maine over the holiday and left Jerry and another cat in Stoneham. Jerry escaped.

The cat is a yellow angora, with bushy tail, white tint on breast, and has a small face.

The parents of June will pay a suitable reward for the return of the animal to No. 66 Adams street, Somerville.

MONTREAL FULL OF LABOR MEN

Hotels Crowded, Delegates to Congress Are Admitted to Private Homes

Montreal, June 3.—Delegates to the American Federation of Labor Congress, which opens next Monday, are arriving by every train and are being quartered in private homes owing to lack of hotel accommodations.

Headquarters have been opened in the Windsor Hotel, but the convention will be held in the St. Denis Theatre. Secretary Frank Morrison and staff arrived today, and Samuel Gompers, the veteran president, will reach here Friday.

The preliminary convention of the Building Trades Department opened with a clash today, the cause of the trouble being the objection of a number of delegates to the delegates of the Granite Cutters' Association and the United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters being allowed to sit, as it was stated that they were in arrears in respect of the general per capita levy taken to cover the cost of legal proceedings arising out of the Omaha injunction case last year.

All delegates with the exception of those of the two organizations in question were seated.

At last! A New Idea in Talcum Powder!

Women Everywhere Are Talking About a Wonderful New, Improved Kind of Talcum Powder

The specialist who created the popular La-may Face Powder has perfected a new kind of talcum. This new invention is two articles in one. It can be used for everything for which talcum is now used, and it has double value in preventing the souring of perspiration. It is the souring of perspiration that people who perspire freely find so objectionable. Women who use this new talcum say it is wonderful for this purpose and that it is also an excellent high grade toilet talcum. It is healing, soothing and delightfully fragrant. Of course, it is called La-may. It sells in the stores for only thirty cents. The package is also new. The box is so attractive that it makes a beautiful dressing table ornament. When you use this new La-may Talcum you will understand why it is almost impossible to get enough boxes to suppy the great demand. If your local druggist has not got it yet he will cheerfully order it for you.

EX-WOOD MAN MAY WIN PENNSYLVANIA FOR JOHNSON

bina the votes necessary to give him the nomination. King is very close to Penrose.

After he quit the Wood management in disgust over the methods employed, King went to Florida with Penrose and spent a great deal of time with him. Just before that he had an intimate talk with Johnson and reviewed the changes the latter had in the fight; he indicated at that time that Johnson candidacy appealed to him as the only likely candidate to bring success to the party in the November election.

IN PACT WITH PENROSE.

During Penrose's illness King was with him almost constantly in Philadelphia and it was stated he would have Penrose's proxy in the national committee meetings. This was changed at King's request in order that a Pennsylvania man, one of Penrose's assistants, might be given the honor.

It is pretty generally understood that King and Penrose have an understanding in the whole matter of the nomination and that they will act in accord with Penrose's wishes. Whether this will operate in reverse fashion to the end that Penrose will follow King into the Johnson camp if he believes Johnson alone can win is the big question which is puzzling the party managers here. There are many hints that such will be the result of the King-Johnson alliance.

Lowden Renounces Support of "Bought" Delegates

Chicago, June 3.—Governor Lowden, in a signed statement issued today, completely disowned Delegates Moore and Goldstein of Missouri, who were shown in the testimony taken by the Senate investigating in Washington to have been given $2,500 each for their work in the Missouri campaign.

The Governor declares that such delegates were not fit to sit in the convention and that he would not accept their support. This action would apply, he said, to any other delegates similarly situated.

He declared that he favored full publicity of all campaign expenditures and would support a federal law to this effect.

"My instructions to Mr. Emerson were to use no money except for legitimate purposes of the campaign and to make no expenditure which could not be made public," Mr. Lowden said. "He had assured me that my wishes in this respect have been absolutely complied with and I have ful faith that he told me the truth.

CALIFORNIA'S DELEGATES OFF

Are Wild for Johnson; Special Gayly Decorated; Bring Poppies and Fruit

San Francisco, June 3.—Republican convention delegates from California left here for Chicago today with just one determination, to bring back the Republican Presidential nomination, made out, signed and indorsed to the order of Senator Hiram W. Johnson.

The delegates, alternates and boosters for the "first President from California," more than 150 strong, are in a special train of twelve cars and will reach Chicago in seventy-two hours.

POPPY THEIR EMBLEM.

There have been parties of presidential delegates, but it is improbable whether any group has or will start out with as propitious an emblem, badge or symbol as that of the Johnson rooters. It will the golden flower of the state—the poppy.

Meredith O. Cobb, a Johnson booster, has made arrangements to comb the hillsides to secure an adequate supply of poppies for the Johnson party. They will be packed in ice during the trip to insure their freshness when Chicago is reached. They will be seen in the lapel of every Johnson man during the convention, and will be used to decorate the Senator's headquarters in the Auditorium Hotel.

DECORATE TRAIN.

In addition to the State flower, there will be packed aboard the special just before train time a wide variety of California fruits. These will be distributed in Chicago.

The decorations which will distinguish the special on its trip include gayly colored cords, bunting and flags. Some of the placards which will show from the train windows are as follows:

"California delegation for Johnson and victory."

"The nation wants Hiram Johnson for President."

DENOUNCE BIG SLUSH FUND

Members of Massachusetts Legislature Bitter Against Barter of Presidency

Massachusetts legislators view with alarm the enormous campaign funds accumulated by some of the candidates for the presidency.

They did not spare adjectives in their condemnation today of the "slush fund" methods. "Dangerous," "Scandalous," "Astounding" were some of the expressions heard about the State House corridors.

"What chance would Lincoln have, if he lived now?" demanded one Representative.

That the very life blood of the republic is threatened if these conditions are allowed to continue was the way many of the lawmakers summed up the situation. The office of chief executive, they declared, appears to be out of the poor man's reach.

Immediate enactment of corrupt practice legislation by Congress which would limit expenditures of both the candidate himself and his campaign committee or supporters was advocated by several. Direct primaries with a uniform day for them throughout the country, others said, would help a lot towards correcting the practice of purchasing the presidential nomination to the highest bidder.

One suggestion heard was that each State of the Union previous to presidential nominations, issue a circular in which each aspirant would be allotted space to set forth arguments for his selection in the same manner as applied to issues under the Initiative and Referendum Act. Some of the statements were:

WILLIAM H. McDONNELL, Representative Tenth Suffolk District and Democratic Floor Leader—The unfortunate feature of a candidate seeking political office is that equal opportunity is not given to all to present their views to the public. The public is often misled in selecting men because they have financial backing. Unless a limit is placed on a candidate's expenditures, the public doesn't get correct or equal information on all who present themselves. The ideal situation would be to give all equal opportunity to advance their cause. There should be a Federal law limiting not only the candidate himself but also the campaign committee in the expenditures of one seeking the nomination for President.

ELIHU D. STONE, Representative Nineteenth Suffolk District—It is repugnant to the ideals of democracy to attempt to influence public opinion through the agency of money. Something must be fundamentally wrong in this republic if it becomes imperative for one, in order to become the chief executive, to spend vast amounts of money contributed by groups of individuals. Surely the obligations assumed by a candidate from the receipts of large contributions is diametrically opposed to the obligations imposed upon him by the oath of office; for one cannot serve two masters. No man, however wealthy, should be permitted to utilize his treasure for the purpose of guiding the destinies of the American people. The presidency is the highest office in the gift of the republic and should come to one from within and not from without.

FRANK A. MANNING, Representative Eleventh Plymouth District and Delegate to the Democratic National Convention—The enormous sums of money being raised in behalf of men mentioned for the presidency is a reflection on our system of government. No man can aspire for the presidency without spending certain sums of money, but when enormous amounts are contributed by individuals and corporations, it is bound to have some influence on the administration of the one who is selected. In the hope of keeping its legislators honest, the Commonwealth has limited the amount to be expended on nomination and election. How much more necessary it is that the Federal government with the highest office in the land involved should enact similar restrictions.

IBANEZ DEFENDS REAL MEXICO

Author Declares "Crowd of Gunmen" Is Exploiting the Poorer Element

the last twenty years, I have written a great deal in defence of the Spanish-American nations, and I have advertised in many countries all that Spanish civilization has done and is doing in the New World. I have addressed not only audiences that speak Spanish. Why persuade people who are already convinced?

I have spread my ideas in countries of different languages. Many cities of the United States have heard lectures of mine on Spanish-American culture. I have spoken in the defence even in Mexico itself—not the pleasantest of tasks by any means, for there, apart from a small minority of exceptional people, the public as a whole, under the influence of a defective education, defies the Indian, despite all his cannibalistic and heart-eating traditions, endows him with a whole set of historic virtues, and revises the Spaniard who first planted on the country's soil the standard of Christian civilization.

CONFUSING THE ISSUES.

It is usual for people who feel themselves in the wrong and don't know how to get out of their mess to confuse issues by distorting their antagonist's words. That trick will not work with me. I say exactly what I think, and it is useless to pretend I have said what I did not say and will never say.

Latin America (within which the Mexican nation chances to be situated) is one thing. But the crowd of gunmen which is exploiting and dishonoring the poor people of Mexico is quite another. I shall always defend the independence and dignity of the nations that partake of my native blood; but the mere fact that a gang of guerrillas, with a grip on the throat of Mexico, happens to use my language to express its collective egotism and ambition is not sufficient to win my support.

If the Mexico of Obregon, of Villa, of the rest of them, were located at the other end of the American continent, in Terra del Fuego, let us say, we could let it fume in peace. The fact is, however, that Mexico borders on the United States, the most powerful nation in the world at the present moment. Mexico, in its revolutionary greed, has involved England, France, and all the countries which make up world opinion. And the disgrace falls back upon every one of us who, by ties of Spanish blood, feel associated with that unhappy people.

TRUTH MUST BE TOLD.

In a subsequent article on "Mexico and Latin America," I shall say something about the damage which the abnormal state of affairs in Mexico, by reason of the Spanish language of that country, does to the prestige of Spaniards in general and particularly of the Spanish speaking states of the Americas.

Humanity, as a whole, does not know geography. It generalizes dangerously in its judgments of nations and races. Most people, when they think of poor Mexico, with one stupid revolution succeeded by a more stupid one, take no trouble to distinguish that country from Argentina, Brazil, Chile, or Uruguay. "The usual Latin American stuff. What can you expect?"

A few days ago, I met a Mexican, who furnished me with some of the data I used in my articles. I was not writing a novel. All those stories, all that gossip, all that talk about graft and robbery, I got either in Mexico or from Mexicans.

"It's a shame!" he said to me. "Those articles of yours are a disaster for Mexico!"

"Wait a minute," I said, "for Mexico, or for the people who are bossing and robbing Mexico? If the latter, I tell you frankly, I'm tickled to death. I wanted to get those fellows! However, that's not the point. Was I, or was I not, telling the truth?

I could see by the expression on his face that he was going to say it was not all true. But he remembered then that a number of the items had come from no one but himself. "It was the truth," he answered with conviction. "But there are truths and truths. The truth we can tell to our friends. But do you have to go shouting it from the housetops?"

YOUNG IN DESPOTISM.

Perhaps I should not stress the comparison between German militarism and the militarism of Mexican brand. German militarism seems to have gone forever, but that of Mexico is in the flush of youth, and it has a long and busy life ahead of it.

German militarism was based on traditions, on hierarchy, on order, and, besides, it originated in the victories of 1871 and in the conquests of territory those victories resulted in. Mexican militarism is based on disorder, on the sudden attack boldly conceived, on the insurrection considered as a means of advancement.

In its whole history, Mexican militarism shows only a series of civil wars, resulting in expenditure for private citizens, plundering for towns, destruction for the national railways. We have yet to see what it could show, in the way of intelligence and professional skill, if it had to deal with an attack from abroad.

The German generals set up an emperor who was Emperor once for all, and passed the office on to his sons. The Mexican generals set up a republican emperor, from time to time, in accord with their own desires and ambitions. Yesterday it was Carranza, "Our First Chief." "Our Beloved Leader," but for the moment, and all rights reserved to kick him out and "liquidate" him, if necessary.

Today it is Obregon, hail-fellow-well-met, the chief with a smile and a slap on the back for everybody. And tomorrow, somebody else, anyone at all, provided he promises to give what his predecessor failed to give, because there are not enough easy berths in the Mexican government to accommodate all who would like to fill one.

CAN THIS MAN WIN THE PRESIDENCY?

The following is an additional article in the American's unique review of the Republican presidential possibilities and deals with Senator Knox of Pennsylvania:

By L. W. STRAYER,
Washington Correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania will have the support of the seventy-six delegates from his State for the presidential nomination at Chicago. But what is far more potential and is likely to win for him the honor of leading the ticket this Fall is the fact that he will have back of him a conviction prevalent among the party leaders and the rank and file that he conspicuously meets the requirements of the presidential candidate at this particular time.

His conceded ability, his experience, his stalwart Americanism, his poise and his inherent respect for law are qualities which offset the handicap of his geography. In normal times the Republican party scarcely would look to Pennsylvania, a rock-ribbed Republican State, the State which, in 1904, gave Roosevelt the unheard-of majority of 483,000 for a candidate. Instead, it would more probably turn to New York, Ohio or some other State that is considered debatable ground.

But these are not normal times. The country is passing through a transitory period which demands the highest statesmanship obtainable. There is a distinct feeling among the people that the ship of state is cruising in uncharted seas, and therefore they want a man on the bridge in whose ability, judgment and courage they have the fullest confidence. That is why geography and other elements of "availability" will cut less of a figure in this campaign than usually is the case; why it is the man above all things else that counts.

Senator Knox entered public life as Attorney General in McKinley's cabinet in 1901 and continued on in the Roosevelt cabinet until 1904 when he was appointed Senator to fill the unexpired term of the late M. S. Quay. Later he was elected to a full term in the Senate but in 1909 he resigned to become Secretary of State in the cabinet of President Taft. In 1916 he was re-elected to the Senate.

WAS TRUST "BUSTER."

A few days ago the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision breaking up the Reading Company, known as the "hard coal trust." Then it was recalled that it was Senator Knox who, as Attorney General in the Roosevelt administration, prosecuted and won the Northern Securities case, which established the authority of the government over great combinations of capital and put a stop to the orgy of monopolistic aggregation then in progress.

As Secretary of State, Mr. Knox encouraged American bankers to join in a consortium of bankers of European powers to finance China in a vast program of internal improvements. The project called for large supplies of ...merican materials and opened a pleasing vista of increased foreign commerce. It was referred to as "Dollar Diplomacy," and one of the first acts of William J. Bryan upon succeeding Mr. Knox in the State Department was to cast "Dollar Diplomacy" out the window and repudiate the whole arrangement.

OPPOSED LEAGUE.

Within the last sixty days the consortium, precisely as favored by Secretary Knox, with the exception of Germany and Russia, has been established and American bankers, at the earnest solicitation of the Department of State, have joined in advancing large loans to China, thus vindicating the Knox policy in every respect.

It is because of his constructive record, of which the above are only two instances, that Senator Knox is not placed under the necessity of proving his qualifications for the presidency. They are admitted. His fight upon the League of Nations was largely responsible for the defeat of the treaty. His movement to secure a state of peace by Congressional enactment has been approved by both House and Senate and now rests with the President.

IS COURAGEOUS FIGHTER.

Coupled with his other qualities is a high order of courage, which gives him the stamina to fight for his convictions in the face of all conditions. He is no quitter.

In three Republican national conventions he has been voted for as a candidate, and his fellow Republicans in Pennsylvania have not abated their belief that he would make a strong leader and a good President. He personally has made no movement to secure the nomination, nor has he authorized anyone to take any step in his behalf. His strength rests solely upon the wide and growing conviction that he is the man for the place.

Tomorrow begins the review of the Democratic presidential possibilities, with Governor Edwards of New Jersey.

WAR HERO HANGS HIMSELF IN CELLAR

Fall River, June 3.—Fred T. Cottam, twenty-five years old, a World War veteran, who served in the Rainbow Division and who was shell-shocked, ended his life here by hanging himself in the cellar of his mother's home, No. 172 Baker street. He was unmarried.

THE DEAF HEAR

Geo. H. Hardwick, 34 Federal Ave., Quincy Adams, Mass., says: "I had catarrh for 30 years. 15 years ago I noticed that I could not hear as well as I should. I am employed in a grocery store and I was compelled to ask the customers to repeat their orders as it became increasingly difficult for me to hear and understand them. I read so much of the cures effected by the Cumo-Chemic Physicians in deaf cases that I consulted and was treated by these skilful physicians, and as a result of their treatment I hear perfectly again and the catarrh is gone."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, CATARRH of the STOMACH, CATARRH of the BOWELS, HEAD NOISES, DEAFNESS, HEART DISEASE, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUSNESS, BLOOD DISEASES, SKIN DISEASES, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, ETC.

GEORGES SHIES AT BATHROBE

La! La! Carpentier Pose This Way With the Immaculate Actor Renavent?—But No!

A bathrobe came between Georges Carpentier and Georges Renavent yesterday afternoon on the Bella-Viola sermot lot Monsieur Carpentier, one of the big show features, and Mr Renavent, star of "Genius of the Crowd," were scheduled—by the press—to have their pictures taken in joyful reunion after many—oh, so many—months away from La Belle France.

Everything went well until it was discovered that the French boxing star was dressing for his turn under the big top. He had miscalculated the time. Messieurs Jacques Farley, Francois Descamps, managers for the box-fighter, and the curious representatives agreed that a picture of Mr Renavent in street clothes and Georges in his mauve silk bathrobe would be entirely desirable.

But Georges has different ideas. He explained them—with gestures—to Descamps. It came to this: Carpentier knew Renavent's reputation for modish garb, the niceties of the toilette. He himself—was he not almost an official emissary of the French people, the great French republic?—had his reputation to maintain. "I am considered one of the most exquisitely dressed men in Paris," explained Georges in a whisper, "and I cannot have my picture taken with Monsieur Renavent in a robe de bath!" And so it was.

To Make Your Hair Look Naturally Curly

Just apply a little liquid silmerine with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair and you will have as beautiful curls and waves as you could wish for. They will be perfectly natural in appearance and will last a long time, even in damp or windy weather. The full effect is secured within three hours usually.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine—which, of course, can be had at any drug store—will last for weeks, so it is quite economical to use. It also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss. When the hair is combed out it will be as fluffy as though it had just been shampooed.

Break in Prices

The Kennedy Stores

While it is, in a sense, against our best judgment to throw our stocks of clothing on the market at this season of the year, as we feel that fundamental conditions do not warrant such extreme measures, nevertheless the trend of the times and the spasmodic price-cutting throughout the country have influenced us to take this drastic step.

This reduction in prices means to the Kennedy Stores not alone loss of profits, but a serious financial loss as well, as our clothing was marked at the closest margin of profit on which this or any other store ever attempted to merchandise.

However, we have thrown discretion to the winds, and regardless of all financial considerations, propose to sell the $3,000,000 stock of men's and boys' clothing in our eight stores at the below marked reductions, which apply to everything except Blue Serges and Blacks.

$30 Suits $25.50 | $40 Suits $33.50 | $60 Suits $51.50

$35 Suits $29.50 | $50 Suits $42.50 | $65 and $70 Suits $54.50

This sale will continue until every dollar's worth of clothing in all the Kennedy Stores has been disposed of.

The same courteous attention, the same careful service, the same guarantee of satisfaction, the same privileges and advantages in every respect during this sale as at all other times.

Talk of Britton-Kloby Match Does Not Carry Right Sound

By JACK CONWAY.

There is some new talk of a bout between Jack Britton, world's welterweight champion and Young Kloby of Lawrence. This time it is reported that the Carlyle A. C. plans to stage the match at Fenway Park on June 19. Perhaps the announcement of the contest was a little premature and may not be the one which the new organization intends to have for its initial show.

The fans don't want a Britton-Kloby tussle, as they are the ones who pay the bills, it would be a good idea for all concerned to give up the idea of such a ridiculous affair.

Morgan Party to Fake Bout at Lawrence

A swinger like Kloby hasn't a chance in a match with Britton. A few years back Boston fans saw Britton cut Charley White, Chicago lightweight, to ribbons at the Arena. White was a short, sharp puncher and much more dangerous than Kloby would be, the Lawrence welterweight only has a right hand swing, which would never cause Britton any worry[illegible].

He Never Heard of Placke

Dear Tad: Just a few questions which I hope you can answer to the relief of a bunch of long suffering office workers regarding the prowess, or fears of a Dutch athlete or fighter by the name of Placke or Plack.

A Hollander in the office is continually praising everything Dutch from tulips to wooden shoes and gin and also some GREAT fighter by the name of Plack.

Was this Dutch giant, Van Alberts, arrived here last week He is become unbearable. It's Plack for breakfast, Plack for dinner and Plack for supper!

It's one subject on sporting subjects, but I cannot find any records of anything like Plack ever did.

Who is he? What is he? And what has he ever done?

Yours truly JUDGE LYNCH

Wait, you never heard of Placke? Some mistake or something Placke, the big slob that went over to Philadelphia about fifteen years ago to lick McCoy. Don't you remember that? The Kid told him that someone was calling him and as Placke turned to see who it was it got one on the button that put him out for four hours. Don't you remember Tad, he sat in the centre of the ring crying while sweet sixteen from a Holland singing society chirped their national anthem?

YALE CREWS IN TIME TRIALS

Last Days of Practice at New Haven Before Trip to Gale's Ferry

New Haven, Ct., June 3—With only three days left of practice on the Yale crews are planning for time trials before going to their permanent training camp at Gale's Ferry.

It would be a thrill to see the two varsity eights and the scrub eight all in the water at the same time, but this will not be possible. The watch today or tomorrow for the last time here this year.

Because of the reorganization of the six-eights the past week they have been given each but one mile, not the four miles, but have been paddling at a clip of better than thirty to the minute.

Coach Dr. Nichols insists that the rowing order which he inaugurated last week in general permanent and he will be making only one or two changes this week.

American's Expert to Cover Vanitie-Resolute Trials

Will it be the Resolute or the Vanitie

Beginning today, this pair of racing vessels meet in a series of elimination trials off Newport, R. I., to determine which is the better suited to uphold America's yachting prestige in the coming international cup race with Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV.

All Americans, whether yachting enthusiasts or not, are interested in these trials, and readers of the Boston American are to have first hand information on this thrilling series between the Resolute and Vanitie.

Charles E. Parker, widely known as an authority on sports, is the American's representative at Newport. He will furnish interesting and accurate accounts of each race. They start with tomorrow's edition. Get it. And then get the habit of getting it.

[illegible] Keats's Man of Chelsea and Frank Rogers of Roxbury will box six rounds, as will Red Crapp, also of Roxbury, and Harry Loring of Chelsea town.

LIPTON SURE HE WILL LIFT CUP

Sir Thomas Gives Three Reasons for Expecting Shamrock IV. to Win Big Race

London, June 3.—Sir Thomas Lipton just before going aboard liner Celtic, bound to New York, this afternoon [illegible]

I have three reasons for believing that I will lift the American cup this year. They are:

"First—My contender is the Shamrock IV. The name suggests a four-leaved clover, which is my favorite mascot.

"Second—In American women I admire olives to look me for a smart the Yorkshire boy in the world; he has jet-black skin and very red hair.

"Thirdly—The boat is built and manned so as to be capable of winning what promises to be a great race.

I am delighted at the presence of [illegible] three great fellows of New York [illegible]

HONEST ALL THROUGH

FOR MEN AND BOYS

The Greyhound—In All Leathers—One of Many Models

"I demand for myself absolute comfort in shoes which are at the same time, smart looking, well fitting and long wearing, and I can't expect any other man to demand less."

Chas O'Emerson

I HAVE always felt that a "Mark Down" sale is an admission that the shoes were not worth the original price.

Emerson Shoes are not "marked up" at one season to be "marked down" later on.

I brand a fair and square retail price on my store shoes based on the actual factory cost of materials and labor. I never ask you to pay more than an Emerson Shoe is actually worth. Our shoes cost you no more in April than they do in August.

This policy of fair dealing with the public at all times is responsible for our great growth in sales. TEN times in the last six years alone.

The shoes in our stores are stocked directly from our factory. That means fresh stock and the latest styles at all times. It means a wider variety of lasts and patterns.

I want you to put my statement to the test. Come into our store, compare our styles and prices and if you are not convinced that Emerson Shoes will give you more in quality and comfort I will not ask or expect you to buy a single pair.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Tense Mystery in Which Heroine Holds Key to Youth

By Marie Corelli.

EPILOGUE—(Continued)

"I THINK I have told you all," he said, speaking now in a low, soft tones. "It was thus your death was sudden. I received written instructions I followed them. I prepared. He knew that Chauvet would be murdered, for he had great consideration in making it a law in your favor. For he cared very greatly for you—he told me he had asked you to marry him."

Diana moved a little restlessly. As she did so a rose that had slipped from a great jewel she wore round her neck—the famous "Rose of Rajpur," whose tragic history she had heard from Chauvet himself—fell to the floor.

"Yes," she answered. "That is true. But—I forgot!"

Has No Heart

"You forgot?" he echoed, wonderingly. "You forgot a proposal of marriage? And yet—when you came to me first in Geneva, you thought love was enough for existence—your heart was hungry for love—"

"When I had a heart—yes," she said. "But now I have none. And I do not hunger for what does not exist. I am sorry I forgot the kind Professor. But I did—completely. And that he should have relegated all he possessed in almost a punishment!"

"You should not regard it as such," he answered. It is hardly your fault if you forgot. Your thoughts are, perhaps, elsewhere—" He paused—but she said nothing. "As I have told you," he went on, Chauvet has left you an ample fortune together with this house and all it contains—its unique library, its pictures and carvings, worth many thousands of pounds and as everything is in perfect order now, I have no trouble. Personally, I had no idea he was such a wealthy man."

She was still silent, looking at him more or less critically. He felt her eyes upon him, and some impulse stung him into sudden fervor.

"You look indifferent," he said, and no doubt you are indifferent. Your nature now admits of no emotion. But, so far as you are woman, your circumstances are little changed. You are as you were when you first became my subject—of mature years, and alone in the world without claims on your time and your affections. Is it not so?"

"It is so," she answered.

"You are alone in the world—alone, alone, alone!" he repeated with a kind of fierce intensity. "Alone for I know that neither your father nor your mother recognizes you. Am I right or wrong?"

Still smiling, she bent her head.

"Right of course!" she murmured, with delicate irony. "How could you be wrong?"

Dark Eyes Flashed

He lifted himself in his chair, gripping both arms of it with clenched nervous hands. His dark eyes flashed a piercing inquiry into her.

"What do you mean?" he half whispered. "What—what would you make me believe?"

She smiled

"Oh, marvellous man of science!" she exclaimed—"Must I teach you your own discovery? You, who have studied and mastered the fusion of light and air with elemental forces and the infinite whirl of electrons with perpetually changing forms, must I, your subject, explain to you what you have done? You have wrested a marvellous secret from Nature—you can unmake and remake the human body, freeing it from all gross substance, as a sculptor can mould and unmould a statue—and do you not see that you have made of me a new creature, no longer of mere mortal clay but of an ethereal matter which has never walked on earth before"—and with which earth has nothing in common? What have such as I to do with such base trifles as human vengeance or love?"

He sprang up and approached her.

"Diana," he said slowly, "if this is true—and may God be thereto bitter!—one thing is your former circumstances is altered—you are not without claims on your time and your affections. I claim both! I have made you as you are!—you are mine."

She smiled proudly and retreated a step or two.

"I am no more yours," she said, than are the elements of which your science has composed the new and youthful vestures of my unchanging Soul! I admit no claim. When I served you as your 'subject' you were ready to sacrifice my life to your ambition;—now, when you are witness to the triumph of your 'experiment,' you would grasp what you consider as your lawful prize. Self!—all Self! But I have a Self as well—and it is a Self independent of all save its own elements!"

To Be Concluded.

Dream With Open Eyes

A Recipe for Success

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1920, by International Feature Service, Inc.

YOUTH says so often, "How can I keep my dream?" "How can I just clutch the very edge of the gown of Success?" "How can I get somewhere?" "Where is the first dim sign of the path that leads to the broad highway where all those blessed ARRIVEDS are walking?" Small boys and small girls write, and one says to me as though I knew for sure —when all know is how I found my way out of the Woods of Doubt into the broad road where those splendid ones are walking who "DO THINGS" —and even yet I'm not walking where I want to walk!—and one says to me, "I dream and draw—I want to be somebody—and mother and father say, 'If you dream you'll never get anywhere.' Is it true?"

Not if you DRAW and dream. For dreams are real things. But little would-be picture-maker, it's true if you dream alone, without the other D! Parents diagnose those strange agonies that Youth suffers when the mind and heart are growing and the tendrils of genius are reaching here and there blindly, in fearful and wonderful ways. Sometimes wrongly. But when yours tell you not to dream, they mean "TOO MUCH."

Dream—yes—for dreams are things—but dream with open eyes—and make your Mother and Father a picture every single day

MEYERS

VARIATIONS—Myer, Meyer, Miers, Mayer, Lemaire.

RACIAL ORIGIN—German, also Norman English and modern French.

SOURCE—Description of occupation.

This group of family names is peculiar in that it has to separate and distinct origins, in words of different languages and having different meanings. In the course of centuries changes of spelling have taken place, bringing about such an intermingling that today there is no sure method, barring definitely known history of an individual's ancestry, of telling from just which source his name developed.

One of these sources is meier, a German word, meaning farmer. As probably a larger number of German family names than of any other race have been taken from occupational sources, and as the occupation of farmer was just as widespread, and probably more so, in the Middle Ages than it is now, you can readily see how the name must have developed simultaneously throughout Germany and how it has been brought wholesale into this country by German immigrants.

The other source is the old English word meyer, which today is mayor. The modern French form is "le maire," or when it is used as a family name, Lemaire.

Inasmuch as farmers were more common in old Germany than mayors were in old England, and since American names come from Germany as well as England and other countries, the chances are that the bulk of the Myers in the United States trace their names to German rather than English origin. In this case the actual spelling is of no certain value. It has been changed around too many times.

Tomorrow—Olsen.

When Hearts Are Trumps

CHAPTER XVIII.

MISS CYNTHIA PAIGE was an early riser. She always reached the breakfast room some minutes in advance of the other members of the household. She liked to see that all was in order on the table. She also enjoyed glancing over the headlines in the morning paper and sorting the mail which the maid was instructed to lay at her place.

She was as prompt as usual on the morning following her confidential talk with her niece. But before attending to anything else she took up the letter lying by her plate.

Certainly the morning's mail was not of sufficient importance to warrant her eagerness. There were a circular and a business letter for Arthur; a notification for herself, of a meeting of the Ladies' Guild, and a post card and letter for Barbara.

Casual Glance

To the letter she gave only a casual glance. It bore the Summerfield postmark and was addressed in Daisy Greenough's hand writing. But she compressed her lips as she scrutinized the postcard. It had been mailed in New York.

Without an instant's scruple, she turned it over and read it.

The message it bore seemed innocuous enough.

"Just arrived in city, well and glad. Will mail letter in the morning. R."

Then, as she heard her brother's footstep in the hall, she laid the postcard and letter at her niece's place—the latter concealing the card.

When, five minutes later, Barbara entered the room, the aunt saw her eyes flash to the address on the envelope at her plate. The card was still hidden from view, and the girl showed no haste to read her letter.

"Good morning," she said in a tone from which she managed to banish any note of sadness.

She dropped a kiss on her aunt's forehead and paused at her uncle's chair long enough to return his kiss and to smile at him as he patted her cheek.

"You're a bit pale, Honey," the man remarked. "Didn't you sleep well?"

Before the girl could reply, her aunt spoke briskly.

"Yes, Barbara, you are pale—and no wonder! You have been keeping late hours recently. Night before last it was well past midnight before you reached home—and last night you were up late—a fact for which I blame myself. But you and I were having such an interesting, heart-to-heart talk that I actually did not appreciate how late it was until my watch surprised me by pointing to eleven."

She smiled significantly. Arthur Page, watching his niece, saw the color creep into her cheeks.

He knew what Barbara and Cynthia had been talking about, and believed, as he had believed yesterday, that he understood the blush. He looked away. He did not want to embarrass Barbara by letting her know he noted her confusion.

"This letter is from Daisy," Barbara remarked, as she sat down. "I wonder why she is writing instead of telephoning"

"She may have tried to call you up yesterday when we were all out," her aunt suggested

She was studying her niece without seeming to do so. As Barbara picked up Daisy's letter her eyes fell upon the postcard beneath it.

Miss Cynthia observed the nervous start and the deepening of the flush in the smooth cheeks.

Quickly, almost furtively, Barbara scanned the card, then, without any comment, slipped it into her pocket.

Cynthia went on eating as if she had detected nothing. She talked steadily for several minutes to give the girl time to collect her wits. At last she asked a question.

She Opens the Letter

"Well, my dear—aren't you going to read your letter? What does Daisy want?"

"Oh—yes—I forgot it," Barbara stammered.

Then she opened the letter and read it.

"Daisy wants to get up a moonlight picnic for this week," Barbara said. "You were right, Auntie—she did try to get me on the 'phone yesterday—when we were out."

Trying to Keep Hat On

By Winifred Black

THE Sweetest Girl and the Stunningest Woman and the Nicest Man and I went motoring together the other day.

The sun shone through the light green of the feathery trees. The fields were sprinkled with wild flowers as the heavens are sprinkled with stars, and all the air was full of the perfume and the promise of Spring. Blue lilies bloomed along the edge of the pond, yellow buttercups laughed in the grass, and the wind called and called—and we followed the calling of the wind.

Whizz—how fast we went. The road was smooth as a satin ribbon. The engine of the car sang a little low song of triumph and delight. On and on we flew—care, anxiety, the petty worries of the petty day—we left them all behind. It was like spreading great wings and flying over the earth like an eagle.

Blue seas were ours to see, dark forests and smiling meadows, and streams laughing through the valleys, fat kine knee-deep in lush verdure, and everywhere little woolly lambs.

Knot of Violets

The Sweetest Girl had a knot of violets at her breast. The Stunningest Woman had pinned an orchid to her coat; and the Nicest Man took off his hat and didn't care who knew that his hair wasn't quite so thick as it used to be.

We are all happy, so happy that we sang a little foolish song about spring and lambs, and springtime and lovetime—but there was something queer about the way the Sweetest Girl held her pretty head—something stiff and unnatural.

It made her look like one of the wax figures in a window—and when she spoke she kept her head always bent at a strange, stiff angle.

"Is it a new fashion," I thought, "like the debutante slouch, or has she a stiff neck?"

And then I happened to glance at the Stunningest Woman, and behold, she held her head at exactly the same strange angle. And no matter what she said or how she sang or how clear her laughter rang, she never turned her stately head the fraction of an inch, and she, too, began to look like a lay figure, set somewhere in a showcase, so that the unlettered could observe and admire the freaks and fancies of the latest fashion.

Ha—we turned a sudden corner! A quick gust of wind snatched the Sweetest Girl's hat—she caught it just in time, put it in her lap, and lo, she turned her head and smiled like a human being!

There was nothing queer the matter with them—they were just trying to keep their hats on—that was all.

Do You Know Others?

They were not dressed for motoring—and they knew that if their hats blew off their hair would not look so pretty when we stepped into the tea shop for a cup of tea on our way home when the sun began to sink into the sea and it was time to remember the children at home and the fire leaping on the friendly hearth.

I suppose they were quite right. Every one likes to look her best—but I wonder if it always pays.

I know another woman who has a nice husband and two nice children, and a pleasant little home, but she's always explaining why she lives in a little house instead of a big one, and nobody cares at all—but herself. She might live in a dimple if she wanted to—and could squeeze herself into it—and all her real friends would like her just the same. But she does have such a time over the size of that house—just keeping her hat on in the machine, that's all.

I wonder if it wouldn't be a great relief to grab off her hat and let the wind blow through her hair—just for once.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no night so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance.

When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy: why you must insist on Fletcher's?

For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine. And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.

IRISH TO MEET ON COMMON

Boston Societies Plan Big Demonstration to Arouse Interest in Cause

The Central Council of Irish County Associations are preparing for a mass meeting at the Parkman bandstand, on Boston Common next month. The proposal will be voted on at the next meetings of the thirty-two subordinate clubs. Its object is to arouse interest in the Irish cause.

Branches of the Friends of Irish Freedom in Greater Boston and other Irish and kindred organizations are, it is stated, in accord with the movement and are to discuss the proposal at meetings to be held this month. An effort will be made to get President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Republic and Judge Daniel F. Cohalan of New York to take part in the demonstration and be the principal speakers.

"ROYAL COALITION" EXPOSE.

Leaders in the plans for the demonstration say it will be one of the largest of its kind ever held in this city and will give an impetus to the Irish cause and result in similar gatherings throughout the country. Revelations of English propaganda in this country and exposure of certain proponents of an organization known in Irish society circles as the "Royal Coalition" as being the recipients of a "slush fund" are promised.

Tentative plans also include a vigorous protest being made to the State, city and town authorities concerning the Pilgrim celebration being controlled by any English organization or English nationals. A resolution bearing on this matter will insist that the celebration be controlled and conducted by 100 per cent American organizations and American citizens.

MID SUMMER CARNIVAL.

The County Donegal Association will gather in Hibernian Hall, Union street, Charlestown, tonight, to enjoy an old-fashioned dancing contest. Chairman Roger Devlin reports that a large number of members of other Irish organizations will attend.

Committees are at work arranging the necessary details for the success of the mid-Summer carnival to be held under the auspices of the Curlew Association in Corinthian Hall, No. 1451 Washington street, South End, Thursday evening, June 17.

ASSIGN HOME STATIONS OF 101ST ARTILLERY

The home stations of the various units of the 101st Field Artillery, Massachusetts National Guard, were announced today in connection with the recruiting campaign for new enlistments. Headquarters Company, Supply Company, Sanitary Detachment and Batteries A and B will be stationed at the Commonwealth Armory; Battery C at Newton, D at New Bedford, E at Brockton and F at Taunton. Many of the non-coms and privates who served with the artillery during the war are re-enlisting. The unit headquarters are receiving enrollments on Thursday evenings. Battery B is receiving many recruits from Technology and Battery C from Boston College. Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne, with the rank of colonel, will command the new outfit.

FREE PANAMA TOLLS WORRY ENGLAND

London, June 3.—The revival of the free tolls privilege for American coastwise shipping in the Panama Canal is being closely watched here. The Financial Times says today that the proposal, as reported from America, "raises the delicate question of retaliation."

It is quite possible, the journal adds, that Britain and France may jointly agree to bestow preferential toll privileges on their vessels passing through the Suez Canal.

"The United States," says the article, "will never win the premier position for her mercantile marine by discriminatory tactics. Britain built up her world-wide reputation by the maxim: 'Show neither fear nor favor.'"

BILL TO IMPEACH POST DROPPED BY HOUSE

Washington, June 3. — The House Rules Committee has decided to pigeon-hole the Hecht resolution providing for impeachment proceedings against Assistant Secretary of Labor Louis F. Post, on grounds that he had not enforced the deportation laws. Members of the committee declared the proximity of the end of the present session of Congress would not permit the matter, to be taken up further.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and entirely greasless, is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in, one or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

TRADING INERT IN BOSTON

Gains the Rule, But Advance Is Feeble; Curb Sluggish All the Morning

The Boston market had a firm tone at the start, but was exceedingly dull. It remained fairly strong during the morning session, and showed more animation late in the forenoon than when business began, but was not sustained. What trading there was included no interesting feature. Prices moved within very narrow limits. It would not have taken much of a shift to have made the market weak. Lacking support, irregular declines here had no definite trend and Gray & Davis was the only issue necessary to note in figure losses in early trading.

Stocks to advance a point or more were Mexican Metals, Utah Consolidated, New England Telephone and Atlas Tack. Smaller gains were made by Cumberland, Arizona, Seneca, Davis Daly, Swift & Co., Gray & Davis, Canton Mills, Eastern Manufacturing, International Cement and West Haven. Point Inward were equalled by U. S. Smelting, Stromberg and Nipissing, Swift International. Among issues to decline fractionally were American Telephone, East Butte, New Cornelia, Highland and Ventures.

CURB WAS SLUGGISH.

The Curb market was sluggish at the start and later it had another dull drift it was toward the noon side. Nipissing was very active, but at the start were Arizona Silver, Eureka and Mutual Trust. Among issues in decline at the opening were Boston & Montana, Daddy, Eureka and Silver Reef. Among gains were Texada, Manhattan and Arizona Silver.

At the end of an hour Arizona Silver was off a cent to 47 cents, Daddy 18½ cents at 56 cents, Eureka 3 cents at 45 cents and Mutual Trust 3 cents at 52 cents.

Cotton Condition at Lowest

The government report giving the cotton condition on May 25 as 62.4 established a record low figure for May 25 in the history of the bureau for ten years past has been 78.7, and the average crop has been 13,100,000 bales. The condition on June 1, 1919, indicated and a great cotton shortage is feared now 6,000 bales of American cotton have been consumed so far this year by American mills and foreign mills and exports are over from last year approximately but about 1,000,000 bales. It is expected that this year's carry-over will not exceed 550,000 bales. The world has never needed so much cotton and the supply may be the smallest ever known.

New Era for Oil

According to Standard Oil officials the petroleum situation or outlook is not so serious as pictured. Colonel N. W. Stewart, chairman of the Texas Oil of Indiana, said while in Oklahoma: "It is our sincere conviction that there is now no shortage in the oil industry. The much discussed shortage is largely confined to the producers themselves. Our reports indicate that already the supply of crude is beginning to creep up on demand."

New York Stocks

ADVANCES FOR THE MOTORS

Equipments Make the Largest Gains; Oils and Rails Are Irregular

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, selling close to the highest level of the morning. Motors were a strong group, rubbers not affecting materially against them this morning. Equipments made the largest gains as a class, steels were higher and oils and rails were irregular.

Advances were small on the average. Trading was very quiet. first hour transactions totalling but about 140,000 shares. Call loans renewed at 6 per cent. Foreign exchange was weak, opening rates being 33.92⅜, francs 12.27 and line 16.92. German marks were quoted at .0222.

Among strongest issues were Crucible, General Motors, Studebaker, Woolen common, Baldwin, Industrial Alcohol, Food Products, International Paper, Hassell & Barker, Punta Alegre and Pan American. They showed from one to two points gain.

Prices advanced when trading was resumed today, the gains averaged small. Crucible doing the best on initial transactions. Point rises were 1, with additional improvement early in general. The market began with the same characteristics as presented in the last hour yesterday, differing chiefly in the respect that this morning it was the buying side that was in control of consequence was done by the professional crowd. The covering movement that gave the market strong tone at the close on Wednesday was not in evidence to any extent at the opening this morning. But apathy pervaded the exchange.

POLITICS IN THE LEAD.

Politics is becoming a more engrossing subject than stocks. It is doubted if the public shows much disposition to buy before Autumn, and demand then will depend largely upon the common forecast as to the result at the polls. There is more disposition on the street Wall Street at present to bet on who the presidential nominees will be than is apparent in the stocks. A dull stock market this Summer is expected. But if the election pleases financial and business interests a wild bull market is probable. Any activity on the part of speculators at present would send call money kiting. Deflation is the determined policy of the government and bankers say they do not intend evidently to give any critics a chance to talk of discrimination.

MILLS LESS ACTIVE.

Not only are stock markets getting quiet, but so are factories. The shoe and leather New England is feeling the effect of order cancellations. There is less activity at woolen plants, and cotton mills are still running on short time. But the goods market is very quiet. After the election prices may be permitted to take their natural bent, and with a great shortage of cotton in prospect, diminished food crops more than a probability, how long artificial restraints will be able to dam up the flow of higher values tion remains to be seen. With everything scarce, including money, how anything can be materially cheap is a question that none of the wiseacres who talk economics can answer.

RAID ON MOTORS IS FAILURE

By BROADAN WALL.

New York, June 3.—Trading in the stock market yesterday was purely professional. Taken as a whole it showed an advancing tendency. There were some losses, but the gains were more substantial. Professionals tried a raid on the motors when announcement was made that J. P. Morgan & Co. would have official representation on the General Motors board and that the stock would be offered to shareholders at 20. But all the operations of the Wall Street crowd failed miserably on liquidation, and in the afternoon there was a covering movement that carried prices up substantially.

Money renewed at 8 per cent., but closed at the 7 per cent. basis for call. The rate is being held high in order to discredit profiteers.

Some disappointment was expressed because the Pan-American directors had not announced a stock dividend at their meeting today.

Tobacco stocks continued strong throughout the session. They got only what the general market turned weak. Rumors are in circulation of an important announcement soon that will affect United Retail Stores.

Consolidated Textile officers say that if the quarter will be as fully as good as the first one in the point of earnings.

Bankers are much pleased at the improved tone in bond market. They look for a better supply of money and a higher stock market. They expect heavy importations of gold in the near future.

TO HOLD UP STEADY REMOVAL OF WHISKEY

New York, June 3.—Bonded warehouses will be cleared of whiskey at the rate of the present rate of removal continues, under the permit system now in vogue. The system will be changed within a few days, it was stated, in an attempt to prevent alleged wholesale forgeries of permits.

MELROSE TEACHER GIVEN $500 GOLD BY PUPILS

Miss Alice J. Coffin, principal of the Warren School in Melrose, who concludes twenty-five years service in the public schools this month, was given a purse of $500 in gold by 500 of the pupils. The presentation was made at a reception in honor of the teacher at Melrose Highlands Congregational Church.

Scoutmasters to Confer

Buffalo, June 3.—Professor Allan Hoban of Carleton College will preside at a scoutmasters' conference to be held here during the thirteenth annual meeting of the Northern Baptist Convention, June 31-29.

DISCUSS RESUMPTION OF TRADING IN WHEAT

Brokers are discussing a date for the resumption of trading in wheat futures, the matter having been referred to exchanges on which the business is conducted by about 400 representatives, who recently held a conference in Chicago. Action is not expected until a special committee reports. The New York Produce Exchange favors reopening with delivery on September contracts.

It is expected that the U. S. Grain Corporation will require from one to two months to wind up its affairs. It is reported from Chicago that the grain trade expect that removal of government price, without hedging, means a wide range, wider spread between producers' price and grain futures' price than for years, and margins about 25 cents, with constant danger of congestion by European buying.

Larger Street Rail Earnings

Massachusetts street railways are earning more, according to reports to the Department of Public Utilities for 1919 returns to that body from thirty-eight lines show that their operating revenues totalled $38,555,- 230, an increase of $12,811,635 over 1918. But operating expenses for 1919 were $48,643,709, compared with $40,217,882 for 1918.

Mail Order Sales

The great mail order house of Sears Roebuck & Co. reports for April sales of $17,705,123, an increase of $220,773. For five months the sales aggregated $124,100,253, a gain of $35,714,928.

Charters Granted in May

During May this year 259 corporations were granted Massachusetts charters, while incorporations in the State of New York for the same month totalled 1,163.

TRADING IN STOCKS WAS QUIET IN MAY

May has a quiet month on stock exchanges, and in New York transactions totalled but 16,862,000 shares for the period. There were only three "million-share days." The volume of business was less than half for the corresponding 1919 month. On May 31 sales totalled but 353,800 shares.

But the bond market was more active, sales for May amounting to $370,847,000, the largest total since the January figure of $397,521,000. The volume for last month was the largest for any May in the history of the stock exchange.

Cotton Opening Delayed

The opening of the New York cotton market was delayed three hours yesterday, or until exchange officials could obtain formal notification that President Wilson had signed the Comer amendment repeal. The action was due to a desire to avoid confusion and disputes over contracts.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Mistaken Opinion of the Attitude of America Toward Ireland

Among the Irishmen best known on this side of the water is Sir Horace Plunkett. Conversely the Irishman who thinks he knows most about American opinion as it concerns Ireland is the same Sir Horace.

The mails have just brought to this country the verbatim report of a speech made by Mr. Plunkett on "The Irish Situation in America" at a public banquet given in his honor in Dublin.

Some portions of that speech we shall reproduce, because it will show Irishmen in this country just what they are being represented as believing and American friends of Ireland just what they are being represented as attempting to help accomplish.

After getting something of a foundation laid, Mr. Plunkett expressed the following opinions as to the relationships between America and Ireland and the results which might be expected from them. He said:

Ireland has become the final proof to every enemy of England in America that British aims in war and peace are insincere so far as they relate to the liberty of small nationalities. The British people, the British Parliament and, above all, the British Government, know this.

Now and again some prominent politician wins cheers by telling America to mind her own business. I agree that it is undesirable—improper I suppose—for alien legislative bodies or official representatives of alien governments to indulge in official utterances or actions which are technically "unfriendly."

But what these people or bodies, rightly or wrongly, say or do, is of infinitesimal importance compared with the popular opinion they represent. When a government acts toward a section of its people in a way which the great majority of its own people notoriously disapprove, it will invoke contempt abroad, which will find expression, often in dangerous ways.

If I had to prove that American opinion about Ireland matters I could bring an array of witnesses who would carry conviction to the world, which, incidentally, outside England, needs no proof. My first witness would be the Prime Minister, and I should not have to ask him to appear, a few selections from his recent Parliamentary speeches being amply sufficient.

Take, for example, his speech on April 16, 1918, at the time of the last grave crisis in the war, when he wanted to justify torpedoing the Convention with conscription. You will find that he emphasized the vital necessity of securing the fullest measure of America's assistance by satisfying her people as to "the determination of the British Government to tender to Ireland a measure of self-government which would satisfy reasonable American opinion."

Not more important but more recent was the speech on December 22, 1919, announcing the Irish policy, which was obviously intended for American consumption, and created the impression, which the bill has dispelled, that at last a serious attempt was about to be made to offer to Ireland something which "reasonable American opinion" might conceivably approve. Now let me tell you what I believe reasonable American opinion will accept.

In America I found, as I have said publicly, a more bitter anti-English feeling than in all my forty years of observation. As usual, although due to many other causes, it was tangled up with the Irish trouble, and was generally expressed in what I may call Irish terms. Personally, I am glad of this, because it will make many people who hesitate to attempt the almost impossible task of understanding and helping to solve the Irish question, see that no sacrifice is too great with such an end in view.

The Americans don't bother themselves with details; they want Ireland to have as large a measure of self-government as is consistent with the military safety of the British Empire, for which many Americans believe they are almost as much concerned as the British are. They would also concede to minorities, more particularly to that of Ulster, ample security from any possible, even if improbable, oppression by the majority of the Irish people.

American opinion does not want Ireland to be an independent republic; it does want Ireland to have all the independence that can be given to it subject to the two qualifications I have named. But, as between the present proposals of the Government and an Irish republic, it would certainly choose an Irish republic. In any case, until the Government ceases to break its promises to Ireland the sentiment of America will be that the Irish people are justified in asking anything they like.

There is a strange conglomeration of fact and mis-statement in this utterance of the distinguished Mr. Plunkett.

President de Valera of the Irish Republic was in America at the same time that he was. Mr. Plunkett could not have been unacquainted with nor insensible to the widespread and vociferous welcome which was given to the Irish President nor could he have failed to be impressed by the endorsement which the American public—whether of Irish birth or not—gave to the plans and aspirations which Mr. de Valera has for his native land.

It was certainly not from American sources nor American evidence that Mr. Plunkett concludes that America "does not want Ireland to be an independent republic."

If Mr. Plunkett or any other mistaken estimator of the American idea of freedom wants to be set right he can get a correct definition from a document once widely read in England, although written in the United States.

It is commonly known as the Declaration of Independence, and the second sentence and those immediately following read as follows:

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unclienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights Governments are instituted among men, DERIVING THEIR JUST POWERS FROM THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED, that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness.

And what follows after freedom has been obtained America is quite willing for Ireland to decide for herself, confident that a nation which through hundreds of years has evidenced a possession of intelligence and judgment above the average of other peoples will not lose either wisdom or discernment because she has become free to apply both.

British statesmen must not blame us for the universal interest of Americans in the cause of Irish freedom. It is not due solely to our love of liberty.

There are now more Irish in America than in Ireland. It was the policy of the British Government that caused the population of Ireland so greatly to decline, while other British islands were gaining; that drove so many Irish to leave their own country and to become most intelligent, active, loyal and peace-loving citizens of the United States.

Dr. Wolcott of the Smithsonian Institute has dug up the fossil remains of animal life that prove life has existed on this earth more than forty-five million years. It is undoubtedly an old planet, for it must have taken many million years to cool off sufficiently for any animal life to thrive. Not less than a hundred million years is the planet's age.

This discovery is most comforting. Maturity always lasts longer than babyhood. If the earth, let us say, lasted one million years while getting ready for man's arrival, it will undoubtedly last another hundred million years, which is about what the human race needs to become thoroughly civilized. What sort of earth will it be in its old age, one hundred million years from now?

Governor Allen, of Kansas, opposes "Federal courts for strikes." It ought to be possible to arrange for the settlement of industrial troubles in some new way. The old way, with employers and employes fighting it out on the chest of the public, is worn out.

But WHO WOULD APPOINT THOSE FEDERAL JUDGES? If a two-million-dollar candidate, for instance, were elected President of the United States, after the "big interests" had put up the millions, what chance do you think labor would have in a court appointed by him? Everybody knows what happened in the court of a certain Federal judge put on the bench to oblige the head of a great street car trust.

Elections are better than appointments, and elections PLUS THE RECALL are better than either.

Chicago, a most hospitable city, announces that every delegate to the Republican National Convention "will have an automobile and a chauffeur at his disposal during his stay in Chicago."

It might safely be added that every delegate to the Republican National Convention can take an automobile and a chauffeur with him, for his very own, if he will agree to vote as certain distinguished campaign fund raising individuals think he ought to vote.

The war found this country with its privately owned shipping in even worse condition than its privately owned railroads. The one fairly big "American" shipping concern was controlled by England. It was most important, everybody was told, that this should NOT happen again.

So the people, every one that paid taxes or bought bonds, provided billions to build ships. Many of those billions were stolen in dishonest contracts, of course.

The men that had failed as private ship builders and owners were put in charge of Government shipbuilding. Nevertheless by sheer power of the national purse, in spite of all Hog Island and other incompetency, ships actually were built.

Now those ships are to be sold below cost, ON CREDIT, to private owners. They will go under foreign flags, if by changing flags labor can be made to take less. The Government will take all the risk, get none of the profit.

AND THE PEOPLE WILL BE SWINDLED AS USUAL.

If they permit it, they deserve it. They have taken government power from the Democrats, that through sheer stupidity brought in professional sharks from Wall Street. They have put in power the Republican party that naturally and automatically belongs to Wall Street and the corporations.

The Republicans will not act quite as stupidly as the Democratic party. They will not turn over the public purse to a professional Wall Street Fagin, but they will do the same work and more of it more neatly.

Stealing from the people the ships that the people built and turning them over to the Wall Street gang on credit is a fair sample of their "nice work."

The best thing said in Europe for a long time comes from Mueller, the German Chancellor, who declares that Germany is through with war "for all eternity," and adds: "No fool, crowned or uncrowned, shall drag Germany into a war of revenge."

If the Germans stick to that, while Poland fights Russia, and Greece, Armenia and others indulge in civil war and outside wars, Germany will be, as Henry Ford of Detroit predicted, second in Europe to get on its feet—if not first.

If you are a "Hands Across the Sea" citizen and particularly anxious to see England prosperous, be gratified to read the statement by Sir George Paish, an important British financial authority.

He says that American private banking concerns have done a great deal for England since the United States Government ceased to be the international "angel."

Not only have American banks lent money, but they have called loans in the United States in order to place the money abroad, thus, as Sir George says, "rendering very valuable assistance to England."

When the American business man finds it difficult to expand, hard to get money for new factories or payrolls, because of his loans being called, it may comfort him to know that the money that he COULDN'T borrow from the American bank has been lent to somebody in England to pay for labor and develop business there.
